AMBROSIA

the Mediterranean Lounge for Arabic & Southern European Lifestyles

In ancient Greek mythology, "Ambrosia" referred to the 'food or drink of the Gods' & is said to confer immortality to those who consumed it.

The Mediterranean can be crudely divided into three regions: North African (especially Morocco), eastern Mediterranean (Egypt, Greece, Israel, Lebanon, Syria, & Turkey), & southern European (Italy, France, Spain).

Ambrosia amalgamates unique wine appreciation culture of the Mediterranean with drinks, ambience, music & traditions of this incredible region into a lifestyle product that aim to provide the most memorable experiences for the discerning connoisseur as well as the casual enthusiast. Wine is an alcoholic beverage made from the fermentation of grape juice with an extended and rich history dating back about 8,000 years. Archaeological evidence suggests that the earliest wine production came from sites in Georgia and Iran, dating from 6000 to 5000 BC. In Egypt, wine became a part of recorded history, playing an important role in ancient ceremonial life. Wine has played an important role in religion as well since ancient times. The Greek God Dionysos and the Roman God Bacchus represented wine.

Greek Myth of Semeli

Dionysus, the Greek God of Wine, was the son of Zeus, but his mother, Semeli, was a mortal. When the wife of Zeus, Hera, found out that Semeli was carrying Zeus' baby, she was very furious & jealous. With revenge on her mind, she tricked Semeli into asking Zeus to show her his real form. When he did so, the fire of his divine radiance killed Semeli. But the unborn baby was saved, as Zeus sewed it into his own thigh.

1996 Gold (Monde Selection Bruxelles & 15th EXPO, Milano)

Myth of Rhodes & CAIR

Rhodes used to be known by the ancient Greeks, as the island of the Sun-God, 'Helios'. According to Mythology, Helios fell in love with a nymph, Rhodes, so when he shone his radiant light on her, she was transformed into the island. Historically, it is also one of the most important wine producing and trade regions, of the ancient world. The label of CAIR has become synonymous with Quality Greek Natural Sparkling Wine. It is made according to the French 'champenoise' method, which is the method of secondary fermentation in the bottle.

This was the discovery of a French monk, Dom Perignon in the 17th century, in the underground temperature- controlled cellars of CAIR
